CURT'S CORNER

Dr. Curt Kruschwitz

When I think about it, it's hard for me to fathom everything our church family has experienced over its 250-year history. Some of our oldest members have told me they remember our church before the roads were paved, when people used to ride horses to church. Our church has lived through the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, the 1918 Pandemic. We've faced internal squabbles over theological issues. We've had serious aesthetic debates over the color of new carpet. We've lived through times of plenty and times of scarcity. But through it all, God's grace has brought us through even the most daunting challenges.

We've faced some unforeseen challenges this past year. But through it all, do you know what excites me most about Goochland Baptist? In a season where it would be easy to turn our focus inward and hunker down, our church family has instead reached outward to bless our community. Earlier this month, a dozen of us put on our masks and traveled to Goochland Cares to take all the food and clothes that our church family donated in the weeks prior to Easter. The leadership of GoochlandCares was thrilled to have a partner like GBC, they told us, because they could count on us to bring them what they needed most. We stayed around all morning to volunteer in their food pantry and their clothes closet. Personally, I was impressed with the scope of their outreach to our community. I'm thankful we can support that. As Jesus said, whenever we clothe the naked or feed the hungry, we're taking care of him, too. Thank you for making that possible.

I'm grateful for all the selfless work our church members have been doing, too, to support our church family and bless our community. Phil Egolf has faithfully mowed the church's grass. George Koch has spent hours working on the church flower beds, making them look beautiful for the spring. Gale Chaisson has organized our clothes closet to collect clothes for GoochlandCares, and Shannon Wilson has coordinated our food collection for GoochlandCares. Mila Spaulding has collected all of our household goods to take to Caritas. Our kitchen crew continue to make upwards of 100 meals for our church family and our community each week - and many of you take them to those who need them most! Our AV crew has worked hard to make sure our sound and live stream work every Sunday. And on top of all of that, a group of about ten of us spent a weekend attending a virtual fresh expressions conference that's started helpful conversations about creative ways we can reach out to our community.

Throughout history, the churches that have thrived, regardless of circumstance, are the churches who have focused not on themselves, but on others. When you think about it, that's essentially what Jesus says - when we focus inward (and try to save ourselves), we wither. But when we focus on giving of ourselves to others and to Christ, we find life. (See Mark 8:34-35 and Mark 9:34-35.) As we get closer to our 250th birthday, it's my hope that we'll continue to focus our energy outward.

Deacon Minutes

Diane Proctor

As many of you know I retired this year, or as I say "I am on permanent vacation" after 53 years in the work force.

My first thought was what in the world am I going to do? It dawned on me I chose permanent vacation during COVID. I am in isolation with few family members, and my oldest and dearest friend who lives with in 5 minutes from me. There is a park near me with hiking trails that we have been blessed to use most every day which has saved me of pure boredom. While walking through the park I take in all of God's handy work. Beautiful trees, different kinds of nature, and think of all the blessings God has given me. This all got me to thinking what in the world is my purpose in life? God has certainly proven to me what his purpose is.

I have to say working, and all the stress of every day issues, I had not given it much thought. Now with the extra time I have on my hands and not living the the hectic life style; I have thought and prayed on this often.

I recently read an article by Crystal McDowell on this exact subject. How do we find our purpose? I also remembered GBC did a study on the Purpose Driven Life by Rick Warren.

God has a purpose for each of us. We are born with a purpose and a calling because we are created in his image. God and his purpose are perfect, but we are not. We have fears and doubts that keeps us from living the purpose God has made for us. God wants us to stay focused on his purpose so we can stay focused on ours. God does not want us to focus on abilities we don't have. He wants us to focus on the talents he has given us, and use them to work for him. No matter how big or small your talents are, those talents can be used to serve God.

Crystal McDowell suggest we focus on scripture that is important to us. List the bible versus God uses to give your life purpose and direction. These versus will tell you who you are and what is important to you and what you are called to do.

Proverbs 19:21: Many are the plans in a person's heart, but it is the Lord's purpose that prevails.

Reach deep down into your heart, talk to God, and discover what God's purpose is for you. What are your abilities? What are your strengths? How can I use them to serve God?

During our weekly Wednesday night youth gatherings, we have been reading through the book of Acts together. As we have been reading through, I'm struck by just how much this book translates to our current moment we find ourselves in now as the church in 2021.

Like the early church, we have had to adapt to the unknown. When Jesus first ascended into heaven, his apostles were stuck, staring up into heaven and had to be reminded by an angel that their work must continue. I'm sure they were asking each other "what do we do now?"

Like this past year, we as the church have had to adapt to the unknown of a global pandemic and adjusting to a "new normal" of what it means to be the hands and feet of Jesus in our community. During this time, we have had to lean more into the strength of the Spirit and where the Spirit is moving within our community.

Like the early Church who were sent the Spirit to go alongside them as a helper, we have had to become more attune to the Spirit during this season. Returning to our new normal will be an adjustment for us all, but my prayer is that we will continuously seek the Spirit and its guidance in what it means to be the Church here in 2021.

Wednesday Nights @ 6:00-7:00 pm

THANK YOU...

Thank you to everyone who volunteered at GoochlandCares' food pantry and clothes closet in April.

MAY MISSION PROJECT

GoochlandCares has told us they especially need 1 pound (16 ounces) bags of beans. They also need canned beans and canned meats. We'll be collecting these every Sunday morning in May.

GBC Goal: To collect 100 bags of dried beans.

In addition, Goochland Cares is looking for more gently-used spring and summer clothes to stock their clothes closet. They can be dropped off in the GBC Clothes Closet in the East Wing of the sanctuary building, or in the white, outdoor bin between the Sanctuary and the East Wing.

GET YOUR GBC GEAR

Mike Nicholas has helped design a custom GBC hat, made by Richardson in a stunning purple hue, and it is available at cost for $15.00 each. A matching golf shirt with the identical embroidery on the left breast is available for $18.00. Please submit all orders to John Webb, leader of the Senior Men's Sunday School Class.

EVERYDAY RESURRECTIONS

CURRENT SERMON SERIES

Go back and look at early Christian artwork depicting the crucifixion, and you'll discover something peculiar. There isn't much. And that's because for the early church, Easter proclamation wasn't about death, but about paradise. Not a paradise off in the sky somewhere, but as this world blessed and recreated by the Spirit of God. You see, the early church envisioned Easter not as an isolated, one-time event, but as a universal event that transforms the world. In other words, the resurrection isn't just about Jesus rising from the dead; it's about God's Spirit bringing new life to the whole world. The way the early church saw it, there were little resurrections happening among Christ's followers every day. That was the ongoing part of the Easter miracle. So for six weeks following Easter, we'll be surveying Acts to read about little resurrections - new life brought by God's Spirit - in the lives of Christ's followers in the early church. And we'll learn how to look for little resurrections in today's world, too.
